Modern Woodmen of America.

This new order in Oregon was instituted in Salem last night, being the second camp in the state. That Salem fraternal orders will have reason to feel proud of this young institution now in their midst, no one doubts when the phenomenal growth and stability of the mother of Woodcraft is organized in its midst. Neighbor Hughes and Dockson of Kansas City did noble work and were in their best mood, and everything went off smoothly. It is estimated by those who have considered the matter that by the next meeting, which is to be held next Saturday night fully 75 members will be initiated.

Oregon Cedar Camp, No. 5246, starts off under the auspices of Salem's best fraternal workers and each and all take a keen interest in the new work. There were forty-six of the sixty-five new members, present, and were admitted into the order. There are about fifteen old members in Salem who had begged to the order in the past.

Regular meetings will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, in the Insurance hall. A committee was appointed to draft by laws.

Saturday evening a special meeting of the new camp will be held in the Insurance hall for the purpose of completing the work and initiating charter members.

A resolution thanking Messrs. Hughes and Dockson for their efficient services in organizing the camp was offered and adopted.

The dues of this new order has been placed at the nominal sum of $2.50 which is lower than any similar order in Salem.

In the central and eastern states the order is very strong, having a membership of over 275,000, 75,000 of which being in the state of Illinois, where the head camp of the organization has its headquarters.

The organization then proceeded to select a full set of officers, who were later duly installed by Special Deputy Head Consul J. R. Hughes, in a most impressive manner, the following well-known persons being selected to watch over the welfare of the new order: J. Myers, venerable consul; Henry G. Sonnemann, adviser; Jos. Baumgartner, banker; J. E. Allison, clerk; Frank A. Turner, escort; M. B. Baldwin, watchman; C. L. Parmenter, sentry; Dr. Lee Steiner, and W. S. Mott, physician; F. N. Derby, delegate to the state convention; J. S. Pennebaker, A. L. Brown and Frank F. Toebes, board of managers.

After the installation of the new officers all partook of refreshments and went home rejoicing and feeling that one more trial had been taken in the right direction and one more provision made for their families.

Y. M. C. A. Membership Contest. A union meeting of all the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Y. M. C. A. and of all friends of the association is called tonight to complete arrangements for a membership contest for the year 1898.

The contest committee has selected captains, lady captains, lieutenants, etc., and, considering the abilities of the force, which will carry on the work, it is safe to predict that this will be the most exciting and hotly contested membership contest the association has ever had.

A number of new features will be brought out this year. There are rumors of mock trials, tug of war and other amusing entertainments.

James A. Dummett, traveling lecturer of the associations of the Pacific northwest, will give a short talk on association work in general, and the need of individual effort among the active members of each branch of the association.

There will be a short program rendered during the meeting, which will be highly entertaining.

A MINSTREL SHOW.—Chas. H. Burgraf, the local playright, is busily engaged at Woodburn preparing a minstrel performance to be given in that city in the near future. The best local talent will take part in the performance which promises to be quite a success.

INKANE.—Samuel Goshen, aged 67 years, was today placed in the asylum.

THE KLONDIKE NEWS.

The Steamer City of Topeka Has Arrived.

BRINGS NEWS FROM ALASKA.

The Mother Lode Said to Be Discovered.

SEATTLE, Wn., Jan. 11.—The steamer City of Topeka, which arrived yesterday afternoon from Juneau had among her passengers nine men who left Dawson City on December 9. They were W. J. Jones, of Portland; Townsend; D. D. Stewart, of Juneau; A. Colder, of Nova Scotia; F. C. Arnold, of San Francisco; W. G. Stenger, of Colville, Wn.; Harry Miller, of Colville; J. Cordroy, of Denver; George Anderson, of Tacoma and Robert Johnson, of Tacoma. They were twenty-four days in coming from Dawson to the coast. Their journey was unattended by special incidents. The coldest weather recorded was eighteen degrees below zero. The party brought out with them $50,000 in gold dust and drafts. Dog teams were used in making the trip.

The party brings no new features in reference to the food situation at Dawson. They all agree that food is scarce, but that there is no danger of starvation. If a large number of persons had not gone down river to Fort Yukon and Circle City to spend the winter, a different tale would have been told. In reference to the proposed government relief expedition all agree that while it is not needed to avert actual want it would be welcomed nevertheless.

W. J. Jones brings news of the discovery of what is supposed to be the mother-lode and quartz origin of the placers of the Klondike district. The discovery was made within twenty-four hours at four different points; one of them at the dome of a high mountain to the east of the source of El Dorado creek, by Frank Slavin; the second at No. 31 on the El Dorado, by A. H. Jose and his partner; the third one on Nugget Gulch, at No. 16; and the fourth somewhere in the 20's on Bonanza creek. The trend of the vein is northwest by west, and westerly from the dome. It is found at about thirty feet below the surface and under the rock and alluvial deposit. The ledge is about eighteen inches wide and maintains a uniform width. It is generously sprinkled with free gold. The greatest excitement prevails and no man will listen to any suggestion to sell his claim until further developments have been made. Jones says: "The output of gold in the spring will be from fifteen to twenty-five millions. Five millions of the dust is now stored in Dawson, three and a half millions of which would have come out this fall had the boats reached Dawson."

Plenty of Meat at Dawson.

VICTORIA, Jan. 11.—Richard Morgan, just from Dawson, throws some light on the food situation there, and also on the general conditions and present necessities of the camp. Meat, he says, is now a drug, and worth but 30 to 40 cents, chiefly because large herds of moose and caribou have lately passed the district and been slaughtered by wholesale, one hunting party bringing in as many as 54.

Hunker creek, emptying into the Klondike, 15 miles from Dawson and fed by Gold Bottom. Last Chance and several other auriferous streams, is proving quite as good as Eldorado, while its gold approaches the Bonanza creek standard of fineness. The Hunker is a long stream, with room for upwards of 100 or more claims, while there are quite as many on the newly prospected tributaries, including Last Chance and Gold Bottom.

The dry dirt of Hunker and these tributaries is said to average 818 to the pan, while claim No. 6, below Discovery, is reported to have turned out one record pan of $104.

Sulphur creek has not yet shown any sensational ground, but $10 and $15 to the pan is not to be looked upon with disdain by the majority of miners.

$35,000 for a Fight.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—At the close of the second act of Corbett's play "A Naval Cadet," at Haylin's theater, Corbett stopped before the curtain and announced that he offers Fitzsimmons $35,000 for a finish fight, the entire sum to go to Fitzsimmons if Corbett fails to put him out in 10 rounds. Corbett intended to issue this challenge on January 17, but decided to make it public. The challenge reads as follows:

"Robert Fitzsimmons: Neither of us is qualified for oratory, and the public is not entertained by your wrangling over what is palpably an honest proposition more to your advantage than mine. As a last inducement to overcome your obvious reluctance to meet me again, I will make that proposition still more favorable, thus:

"Your profits from your four greatest battles were $32,000. You made nothing out of your fight with me, for, having no hope of winning, you sold your chance for the purse for 15 per cent of the profits of the verisopce. Therefore, $32,000 represents your reward in gross for the five greatest contest of your life. Now, here is the plan I have to offer:

"A purse of $25,000 stands ready to be offered as a prize for a meeting in the ring with you. To this I will add $10,000 of my own, conditionally, that you agree to box me to a finish. This makes $35,000. I offer you this entire sum if I fail to stop you in 10 rounds, with two provisions, viz: First, that the contest must continue to a finish, and, second, that I shall have something to say in regard to the appointment of a referee.

"This is my final proposition. Take it or leave it. If you really want to light—it offers it. If you want money

—a sum is ready, exceeding your gross receipts in five great battles. If you want reputation—you can make it better by meeting me than by meeting all others together. If you doubt this, ask the public each night when you exhibit.

"That is my ultimatum. If this, my last offer, will not make you meet me like a man, it is because your Carson bruises are still aching so painfully that $35,000 cannot tempt you to endure their certain repetition. This is the only excuse you can offer or that the public will accept. The tree of success is hard to climb, admit it. It may be that you are satisfied with the small fruit ripening on the lower limbs. The small prize can only be won by reaching to where my name was, is, and shall be. But, whether you will so venture or not, this, my last challenge to you—and to bind which I shall post $10,000 forfeit the minute you accept—is to remain nailed where you must see and cannot avoid it.

"JAMES J. CORBETT."

According to Chandler.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Senator Chandler had a conference with President McKinley upon the subject of Bimetallism and he said after the close of the interview:

"The president stands firmly in favor of international Bimetallism, as promised by the St. Louis platform. He considers the negotiations with the European powers only temporarily suspended on account of the peculiar condition of affairs in India and it is the president's intention to again send envoys to Europe as soon as conditions are favorable for continuing the negotiations."

Chandler added the opinion that the president is as earnestly in favor of Bimetallism, the use of both metals as standard money as the senator himself.
